By use of a package service, content delivery that is more efficient than other content delivery can be performed. As a method of realizing a package service, a technique is disclosed in which the user's end stores a data package (or content) and a delivery request is sent to a content provider in advance. When receiving a request to deliver the data package, the content provider searches a delivery destination (content provider server) for a content delivery service that can handle the request. In addition, as an example of a package delivery system that is being built, the S-DOC (Samsung Discourse Online Document) service is known. The MetaMacro is a group of macros for Macros. Within this group, you will find some macro enhancement, interesting data processing functions and also a few useful tools for dealing with special elements. For example, the NormalTitle is a macro that allows you to create a normal title at the beginning of a page title, which in turn works like a title tag in HTML. The Animate Image macro will allow you to move, zoom or rotate images or even one-at-a-time. A similar function, except that it deals with animations rather than moving images, is the Animate Document macro, which allows you to move, zoom or rotate pages within a document. As the title implies, the Timer macro allows you to set a timed event. For example, you can delay the display of a page for a given period of time. The Alternate Title macro will enable you to create a title that is in two parts; the main part appears at the start of a page title and the second part appears after a gap. Another handy and rather useful macro is the Attribute macro, which allows you to retrieve information from a tag's attributes. For example, you can set the link color for a given page title or the page number for a given page in an archive. If you're into CSS, the Yocs macro is for you. Using this macro, you can set a page title to a certain color, then set the background color to a different one. For example, the title will be green and the background color will be white. The AllInOne macro will allow you to create a page title, a page number and a page number within a page title, all in one. With the Append macro, you can add a string of text to the end of a page title or text. Lastly, the EnableMacro will make all the macros you have chosen to enable work. Also, we're happy to present you the new version of Macrotagger. If you're a programmer and you want to create macros for Macros, then you can try out this software for a free download.
