The gameplay improvements are designed to enable players to get closer to the ball and receive more touches and therefore more opportunities to create goalscoring opportunities. "The gameplay enhancements in FIFA 22 are one of the most substantial steps in our history of evolving the sport," said FIFA Executive Producer Jose Luis Alcacer. "We have seen the incredible reaction to FIFA Ultimate Team over the last two years, and working closely with our fans has been such a rewarding experience. There are multiple ways to play the game of football and we are looking forward to introducing this technology to all players this month." A few gameplay improvements have been added to FIFA 22. Read on to find out more. Core gameplay changes Recreating the magic of the Ultimate Team matches with FIFA Ultimate Team - a game mode that will be added to FIFA 22 on April 28, 2015 - will now be enabled in all online matches. A new Balance board has been added to Ultimate Team, which can now be found under the Best Players tab at the Leaderboards. This new Balance board will reward players with extra packs if they perform in tough match scenarios, which will be showcased before each match begins. A new set of gameplay rules for Online Matches have also been added. These new rules have been designed to be more tactical and encourage players to outsmart their opponents by combining a variety of tactics and deceptive actions to gain the upper hand. These new rules include:

- Virtual Pass When a defender successfully blocks the path of an attacking player, the attacking player may switch the ball to a teammate by using a successful virtual pass.
- Ball Impact When the ball rebounds off a player or the goalkeeper, defending players may apply pressure. This pressure can be applied to either the player who will receive the ball or the player applying the pressure. In addition, defending players may fake an attack on goal and get the opposing team off balance.
- Crowd Team In FIFA 22, the crowd will no longer cheer when a goal is scored. Instead, the crowd will boo the goalkeeper when he misses a goal. The crowd will also boo if a player is fouled and if a player commits a foul using dirty tactics. Crowd Team is not yet available in FUT matches, so we are still working on perfecting the rules. We will continue to monitor the FUT community to ensure that this feature is in your game for FIFA 22. F
