Firmware update on MT882 is a.In a magnetic recording/reproducing apparatus using a magnetic disk, in order to achieve a high transfer rate of high frequency signals, it is an important issue how to reduce the mass of a disk drive head and to increase the frequency of rotation of the disk. A conventional approach to the high transfer rate is the formation of a suitable magnetic layer on a substrate. The reduction of the mass of the head is achieved by using a thin film head. The thin film head is generally a plate-shaped head made of sintered ceramics, or a thin film head (about 20 to 30 μm thick) formed by electrodeposition. The high-frequency characteristic of the thin film head using the thin film deposition technique, however, is significantly deteriorated. This is because a gap is provided between the head and a magnetic recording medium, and the high frequency band characteristic is deteriorated in comparison with a head formed of a sintered ceramic plate. In order to eliminate this gap, there is a method in which, for example, a magnetic layer is made thin or a space is filled with air, as disclosed in JP-A-57-176287 ("JP-A" means unexamined published Japanese patent application). However, when the magnetic layer thickness is thin, a density of magnetization of a main pole or the thickness of the magnetic layer tends to be reduced. Further, when the space is filled with air, the thickness of the magnetic layer is reduced, but the magnetic flux leaks outside. The result is that the output cannot be high. In order to eliminate the gap, a technique of overlapping the magnetic layer with a pole by providing a spacer made of an insulating material between the upper and lower magnetic layers, thereby eliminating the gap between the head e79caf774b enforcement agencies across the state to allow officers to carry guns in schools, churches, and movie theaters, even in situations that could result in deadly violence. Senate Bill 1471 passed the Senate last week on a 13-7 vote. It now goes to the Texas House of Representatives. In 2013, a mass shooting at a movie theater in Aurora, Colo., left 12 people dead and 70 injured. Over the past decade, numerous shootings have occurred in schools, including the fatal attack at Columbine High School in 1999 that left 15 dead, and the 2008 shooting at Virginia Tech that left 33 dead. "I believe this is a minimal intrusion to public safety because we have the situation where there is absolutely no public safety benefit to us having access to firearms inside of places where we have a heightened sense of safety," Sen. Brian Birdwell, R-Granbury, who authored the bill, told the Dallas Morning News. "I'm no pacifist, but I don't believe that the ordinary citizen should have access to
