The game was released in North America on June 20, 2009 and in Europe on September 14, 2009. It was released in Japanese on October 2, 2009. It is the first game in the tactical role-playing game Red Company, which is a spin-off of Idea Factory's Army Corps series. Red Sector is the English language localization of the Red Company first game Red Company: Assault Story On the planet of Beta Regio, a group of intergalactic convicts break out of prison and form the Red Company of mutants who have all been mutated by the force of live gamma rays, causing their eyes to glow red and causing them to develop cybernetic implants. The Red Company is lead by mysterious villain Shiro Amada and his powerful cyborg forces. Shiro conspires and leads these human mutants to chase the surviving journalist Yuri Velikov and his cameraman Hiroko Imai in their lives. Part of Amada's plan is to destroy all of humanity in order to purify the universe of humans. Development Red Sector is an adaptation and localization of Red Company: Assault, a tactical role-playing game developed by Idea Factory for the PlayStation 2. Red Company was developed by Kazushi Amada and designed by Okubo Fujitaka and Koshi Ozawa. It is a sequel to Crash Road, the first Idea Factory game, also released for the PS2, but Red Company is based on a new story instead of being a port. A sequel to both Red Company and Red Company: Assault, Red Company 2 was developed by Kazushi Amada and Tsutomu Hori. The following Red Company games are all based off this story. Gameplay Red Sector follows the turn-based tactics format first seen in the Army Corps series. Players take the role of Yuri Velikov and Hiroko Imai, two Marine Corps soldiers under the command of an Eastern European Special Forces unit. They must search for survivors in the aftermath of a military operation gone terribly wrong. Combat Red Sector only allows the use of the Left and Right shoulder buttons. Both buttons can be used to select a target. Pressing the B button will target an area on a character's body, press A will select the target.
